

Being a Sex Ed Sleuth

A Lesson Plan from Rights, Respect, Responsibility: A K-12 Curriculum

Fostering responsibility by respecting young people's rights to honest sexuality education.

NSES ALIGNMENT:

By the end of 8th grade, students will be able to:

AP.8.AI.1 – Identify accurate and credible sources of information about sexual health.

PR.8.AI.3 – Identify medically-accurate sources of pregnancy-related information and support including pregnancy options, safe surrender policies and prenatal care.

PR.8.AI.1 – Identify medically-accurate resources about pregnancy prevention and reproductive health care.

SH.8.AI.1 – Identify medically-accurate information about STDs, including HIV.

TARGET GRADE: Grade 6
Lesson 7

TIME: 50 Minutes

MATERIALS NEEDED:

- Laptop or desktop computer with PowerPoint on it
- PowerPoint presentation titled, "Sex Ed Sleuth"
- LCD projector and screen
- Internet access
- Copies of four Sex Ed Sleuth assignments, each stapled together, one per group of four (or three)
- Handout: Sexual Health Information Websites – one per student
- Pencils in case students do not have their own

ADVANCE PREPARATION FOR LESSON:

- Print out the question sheets and screenshots – ideally, in color – and staple the pages for each individual website together. Make enough copies for groups of four (or three) to each have one. It is okay for more than one group to have the same website.
- Ask your IT person to make sure you have access to the four websites listed in the Sex Ed Sleuth activity: Sexetc.org, <http://www.greattowait.com>, <http://www.plannedparenthood.org/learn/birth-control> and <http://bestchoicestl.org>.
- Before class, review the content on each of these websites so you are familiar with what is there.
- Before class, open up these four websites so they are ready once the students have done their activity.

A NOTE ABOUT LANGUAGE:

Language is really important and we've intentionally been very careful about our language throughout this curriculum. You may notice language throughout the curriculum that seems less familiar - using the pronoun "they" instead of "her" or "him", using gender neutral names in scenarios and role-plays and referring to "someone with a vulva" vs. a girl or woman. This is intended to make the curriculum inclusive of all genders and gender identities. You will need to determine for yourself how much and how often you can do this in your own school and classroom, and should make adjustments accordingly.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

By the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

1. Name at least two characteristics of accurate, reliable websites on sexuality and sexual health. [Knowledge]
2. Demonstrate an understanding of how to determine whether a website is medically accurate, age-appropriate and youth-positive. [Knowledge, Skill]

PROCEDURE:

STEP 1: Ask the class, "How many of you have ever gone online to get an answer to a question you had?" After students have raised their hands, ask, "Do any of you have sites you go to for your questions, or do you just search for your question and see what comes up in the results?" After a few people have responded, ask, "Whether you go directly to a site, or you just search on your question, how do you determine whether the search results are good ones? There is a lot of misinformation on the internet – and if you rely on sites like YouTube or any of the other sites where people vote on whether they think an answer was good or not, you're not necessarily going to get reliable information. Even though Wikipedia has improved, it, too, is not always the most reliable resource. What we're going to do today is talk about how you do find reliable online sources for sexuality-related information – and how you can determine how some sources aren't particularly interested in getting you the information you need!" (5 minutes)

Being a Sex Ed Sleuth

STEP 2: Start the PowerPoint, "Sex Ed Sleuth." Ask whether students know what a sleuth is, and if they do not, explain that it is like a detective – someone who looks for clues and information to answer a question or solve a problem.

Go through the first three slides. At Slide 4, say to the students, "What if I wanted to know how effective condoms are? I would likely just Google that question. When I did it, here's what came up." Go to slide 5, which is a screen shot of the search results. Say, "So I have over a million results to choose from, and these are the top ones. So which one should I look at?"

Go to slide 5, where a few things have been highlighted and go through each, saying:

"So, when I read 'It's Your Sex Life,' it makes me feel like that organization wants me to take responsibility for and care of myself. I'd kind of like that as a teen, I think it'd make me feel really capable and mature. What also stands out even before I click on the link is that it refers to the CDC. The CDC is the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and it's the leading national public health organization in the U.S. It's also a part of the U.S. government. I know this because the ending – the part that comes after 'CDC' is '.gov.' So if I see the CDC mentioned, I know they've done their homework and that the information is accurate.

Then I look at 'WebMD' and I'm not sure until I've done more research. Having 'MD' in the title of this resource, which is usually very reliable, might make you think it's a doctor who wrote everything, but it's not – it's independent writers who interview various professionals, check their facts and then put that information on the site. So you'd want to do a bit more sleuthing before deciding it was reliable.

Finally, there's 'Kids Health.' What do you think? If I were your age, part of me would say immediately, 'oh, that's for me,' but we won't know without more information. So why don't we check that one out and see what's what?" (5 minutes)

Go the slide 7, which is a screenshot of the Kids Health site mentioned in the search results. Ask the students what stands out to them that would make them think this is a reliable site, and what makes them feel like they'd need more information.

After hearing their responses, go to slide 8 and go through the highlighted portions, saying: "I highlighted 'from Nemours' at the top left – does anyone know what they are? Okay, so first, we'd need to find out who they are and whether they have a bias or whether we think they know what they're talking about. The second thing that stood out for me was this part that reads, 'Expert Answer.' Again, according to whom? I could say right now, 'I'm an expert on American history.' But just saying that doesn't necessarily make it true – you'd need to find out what makes me an expert. So I'd want to know who is answering the questions, and what makes them an expert instead of just some person who is Googling the answers from another website.

Being a Sex Ed Sleuth

A Lesson Plan from Rights, Respect, Responsibility: A K-12 Curriculum

Finally, what stands out to me is this statement, 'If you and your partner are having sex...' This implies to me that it's a health-related site that's based in what's going on in the real world. It acknowledges that many people won't be having sex – and we all know that the only 100% effective way of avoiding STDs and/or pregnancy is by not having sex with someone. But it also seems to acknowledge that most people will have some kind of a sex at some point – and so when they do, using a condom is really effective."

Go to the 9th slide and say, "By the way, I clicked on the statement, 'by Nemours,' and found that it's a children's healthcare system, with no religious affiliation and a lot of health-related expertise. So I determined this was a reliable website that I might go back to with other questions I had about sexuality." (5 minutes)

STEP 3: Tell the students they are now going to do the same thing for themselves. Explain that you are going to divide them into groups of 4 and give them a packet that comes from a particular website. Explain that each packet will have a cover sheet with questions on it that they need to go through and answer. At the end, they will need to decide whether this is a reliable website for having that question answered, based on what they see there. Ask if there are any questions, break them into their groups, and distribute the assignments. Tell them they will have 15 minutes in which to do this work. Walk around as they work, providing support as needed. (15 minutes)

Note to the Teacher: Depending on the number of students in your class, you may wish to have them break into triads instead. If you have enough computers, you may wish to do this online; however, using the printouts provided ensures you will be able to do the activity if there are any issues with internet access, and also gives a bit more control over the process so that students will not be tempted to go to different parts of each site rather than complete the activity.*

STEP 4: Ask each group to report back on their websites. Since there will be duplication with some of the sites, ask any groups that follow to please not repeat what has already been said, but instead to share whatever they may feel differently about, or found in addition to what the other group found. As each group goes, project their websites on the screen. (17 minutes)

STEP 5: Congratulate the students on doing a good job. Explain that you are going to distribute a list of websites that are reliable and medically accurate, and ask them to visit one of them for homework with a parent or caregiver. (3 minutes)

RECOMMENDED ASSESSMENT OF LEARNING OBJECTIVES AT CONCLUSION OF LESSON:

Assessment of both learning objectives can be done during the small group report-backs. Students will also be asked to hand in their worksheets for additional assessment.

HOMEWORK:

Have students select a website from the list provided by the teacher and ask them to visit at least one with a parent/caregiver and talk about what they saw.

Pregnancy

Since the year 2000, over 100,000 teenagers in Florida between the ages of 15 and 19 have become pregnant.(1) Two out of three teenage mothers live in poverty.(2) They spend their days struggling to balance their lives, while taking care of their baby. The surest way to have time to do all the things you enjoy and to avoid pregnancy is to not have sex.

Are You Ready to be a Parent?

Being a parent changes everything. You have another living, breathing person to worry about who depends upon you. You have to feed, change, dress and take care of this baby 24/7. Add in school, maybe a job, and you have no time for the things you want to do or used to do.

Babies cost a lot of money. You'll have to provide food, housing, clothing, diapers, doctor visits, medicine, baby furniture and daycare. The baby of a teenager is more likely to have health problems. If the other parent is raising your child, you could pay a child support payment every month for 18 years.
